

FULL CIRCLE

Infinite Circle

Photo by AbsolutVision on Unsplash

No Such Thing As Bad Press

A couple of weeks ago, I did a presentation on Burnout for the Post Falls Chamber of Commerce. I anticipated an audience of nearly double-digits. On that guess, I was accurate. Intentionally, I dressed casually. Not weekend attire, but not precisely prepared to meet the Queen, or Queen, for that matter.

The presentation went well and I got my picture in the paper looking like I stopped by in the middle of a long road trip. With any luck, people liked the content and resonated with the message, even if I wasn't fit for a GQ cover.

View the awkward for yourself here and...

Go Forth and Be Awesome

Could have known or should have known.

Leaders have positions of power. Sometimes this is known and understood while other times, it is implied or believed.

An effective leader should understand that their power goes beyond the words on their business cards.

There are different types of power and the series kicks off with coercive power at: 360-Clarity.com/blog

I've Got The Power

Something Extra

Photo by Clay Banks on Unsplash

An "econ" is a person who always thinks rationally and always makes rational decisions.

Econ's do not exist.

As humans, we have more senses than our rational brain that drives our decision-making. Sometimes, those other feelings are better indicators of the right decision than thinking through every bit of a situation.

Listen to your heart and see more here.

Please forward this to whomever you like!

If you'd like to unsubscribe, please let me know.